Name: ADITI S ANAND
Registration number: RA2511056010356
Date: 13 Nov 2026

21LEM202T — Unit 2, Session 5, SLO 1

Part A — Key Ideas (Recap)

● Self-regulation (sanyam): ● Self-regulation (sanyam) = the feeling of responsibility toward the body — for its nurturing, protection and right utilisation. Health = the body acts according to the Self, and the parts of the body are in harmony (in order).

> Self-regulation (sanyam) = the feeling of responsibility toward the body — for its nurturing, protection and right utilisation. Health = the body acts according to the Self, and the parts of the body are in harmony (in order).

● Physical facility: ● Physical facility is required only for nurturing, protection and right utilisation of the body, and in a limited quantity. The required quantity can be identified.

> Physical facility is required only for nurturing, protection and right utilisation of the body, and in a limited quantity. The required quantity can be identified.

● Prosperity: ● Prosperity = the feeling of having / producing more than the required physical facility. It needs two steps: (1) identification of the required physical facility, including the required quantity — with right understanding; (2) ensuring the availability / production of more than required — with right skills.

> Prosperity = the feeling of having / producing more than the required physical facility. It needs two steps: (1) identification of the required physical facility, including the required quantity — with right understanding; (2) ensuring the availability / production of more than required — with right skills.

● A prosperous person: ● A prosperous person thinks of right utilisation and of nurturing the other; a deprived person thinks of accumulation and of exploiting the other.

> A prosperous person thinks of right utilisation and of nurturing the other; a deprived person thinks of accumulation and of exploiting the other.

● We can observe two categories: ● We can observe two categories: lacking physical facility, unhappy/deprived; and having physical facility, unhappy/deprived. We want to be: having physical facility, happy/prosperous. Without identifying the required physical facility, one only shifts between the first two categories.

> We can observe two categories: lacking physical facility, unhappy/deprived; and having physical facility, unhappy/deprived. We want to be: having physical facility, happy/prosperous. Without identifying the required physical facility, one only shifts between the first two categories.

● Gross Misunderstanding 1: ● Gross Misunderstanding 1: Human Being = Body, leading to unlimited accumulation. Gross Misunderstanding 2: resources are less than our need — yet global food production is several times the requirement and about one-third is wasted; it is a question of right understanding and education-sanskar, not of production.

> Gross Misunderstanding 1: Human Being = Body, leading to unlimited accumulation. Gross Misunderstanding 2: resources are less than our need — yet global food production is several times the requirement and about one-third is wasted; it is a question of right understanding and education-sanskar, not of production.

Part B — In-Class Activity

Activity 1 — Family Prosperity Chart

For each physical facility, fill in the quantity required and available, and judge whether your family is prosperous with respect to that need.

Physical Facility	Qty Required	Qty Available	Prosperous v need?
For nurturing the body (food…)	3 meals per day	3 meals per day	Yes
For protecting the body — clothes	10 sets per person	15 sets per person	Yes
Shelter (house)	1 house	1 house	Yes
Communication devices	1 smartphone per adult	2 smartphones	Yes
Transportation	1 bicycle	1 bicycle	Yes
Tools, instruments & gadgets	1 laptop for work	1 laptop	Yes
Items available but not required (curios, show-pieces)	0	3	No (excess)

Activity 2 — Are you prosperous with respect to clothes?

Calculate the total quantity of clothes required by your family for protection, find out the quantity available, and conclude.

- Quantity of clothes required (for protection): _____
- Quantity available: _____
- Is the available quantity less, equal to, or more than required?
- As far as clothes are concerned, do you feel prosperous or deprived?
- Quantity of clothes required (for protection): 10 sets per person
- Quantity available: 15 sets per person
- Is the available quantity less, equal to, or more than required? More than required
- As far as clothes are concerned, do you feel prosperous or deprived? Prosperous

Part C — Long-Answer Questions

Q1. Define self-regulation (sanyam) and health. How are they related to the harmony of the Self with the Body? [5]

Self-regulation (sanyam) is the continuous feeling of responsibility of the Self (consciousness) toward the Body, ensuring its proper care and maintenance. Health is the state of the Body where all its parts are functioning properly in harmony with each other and with the Self. They are related because self-regulation by the Self ensures that the Body is kept healthy through proper food, exercise, rest, and hygiene, thus maintaining harmony between the Self and the Body.

Q2. What is prosperity? Explain the two steps required to ensure it. [5]

Prosperity is the feeling of having more than enough physical facilities required for one's needs, combined with the confidence that one can nurture others with the excess. The two steps required to ensure it are: (1) correctly identifying the quantity of physical facilities actually needed for one's body and family (not based on greed or comparison), and (2) ensuring that the available quantity is more than that required, so that the excess can be used for right utilisation and nurturing others.

Q3. Explain the two gross misunderstandings discussed (human being = body; resources are less than need), using the data given. [5]

The first misunderstanding is that the human being is only the body, ignoring the Self (consciousness). This leads to identifying happiness with physical sensations and accumulation of physical facilities. The second misunderstanding is that resources are less than our needs, which creates a feeling of scarcity and competition. Data from the Family Prosperity Chart shows that for basic needs like food, clothes, and shelter, the required quantity is small and easily met, and the available quantity is often more than required, disproving the idea of scarcity.

Q4. Distinguish a prosperous person from a deprived person in terms of what each thinks of doing with physical facility. [5]

A prosperous person thinks of right utilisation of physical facilities — using them for their intended purpose and nurturing others with the excess. A deprived person thinks of accumulation and exploitation — hoarding more than needed and using others for personal gain, driven by the fear of scarcity.

Q5. Using the Family Prosperity Chart, work out for one category of physical facility whether your family is prosperous or deprived. [5]

Taking the category of clothes: my family requires 10 sets per person for protection, and we have 15 sets per person available. Since the available quantity is more than required, we feel prosperous with respect to clothes. We can use the extra sets to give to those in need, which aligns with the feeling of prosperity.

Self-Reflection (Take-Home)

• Do you have a continuous feeling of self-regulation (responsibility toward your body)? Is your body healthy? (Slide 17)

• Do you have a continuous feeling of prosperity? Do you think of right utilisation and nurturing others, or of accumulation and exploitation? (Slide 17)

• I have a continuous feeling of self-regulation — I take responsibility for my body by eating healthy, exercising, and getting enough rest. My body is generally healthy, though I occasionally fall sick.

• I have a continuous feeling of prosperity — I feel I have enough and more than enough for my needs. I think of right utilisation and nurturing others, not accumulation and exploitation.