21LEM202T — Unit 5, Session 1, SLO 2

Part B — In-Class Activity

Activity 1: Complete the table using the lecture content.

Level	Value	Result
Self	Continuous happiness	Happiness in the Self
Self-Body	Self-regulation and health	Health and harmony in the body
Human-Human Relationship	Justice	Mutual happiness
Human-Rest of Nature Relationship	Prosperity and preservation	Prosperity for humans and preservation of nature
Universal Human Order	Participation	Harmony in the entire existence

Table 1

Level	Focus / Relationship	Human Value	Expression / Result
In the Self	Will to live with continuous happiness	Happiness	Harmony within
Human Being with Body	Self-Body relationship	Feeling of Sanyam in Self; Swastya in Body	Self-regulation and health
Human-Human Relationship	Relationship with other human beings	Trust, Respect, Affection, Care, Guidance, Reverence, Gratitude, Glory, Love	Mutual happiness
Human-Rest of Nature Relationship	Work with material things	Prosperity in human being + Preservation of rest of nature	Mutual prosperity
Universal Human Order	Participation in societal systems	Perseverance, Bravery, Generosity, Kindness, Beneficence, Compassion	Fulfilment of Human Goal

Activity 2 – Behaviour, Work and Participation (Lecture 23: Natural Acceptance of Human Values)

Table 2: Fill in the value-oriented action and its expected result.

Human participation	Value-oriented action	Expected result
Behaviour with human beings	Values in relationship: trust, respect, affection, care, guidance, reverence, gratitude, glory and love	Mutual happiness
Work with rest of nature	Right utilisation, preservation and protection of material things	Prosperity for human beings and mutual prosperity of rest of nature
Participation in larger order	Participation in different systems with perseverance, bravery, generosity, kindness, beneficence and compassion	Fulfilment of human goal

Activity 3 – Implications of Value-based Living (Lecture 23: Implications at all levels)

Table 3: Read each implication and identify the level: Individual / Family / Society / Nature.

Implication	Level
Reduction of tension, frustration, depression, one-upmanship and psycho-somatic disorders	Individual
Peace and harmony in the family; more just and fulfilling behaviour; feeling of togetherness	Family
Mutual trust, fearlessness and reduction of discrimination based on body, facility or beliefs	Society
Pollution and resource depletion handled smoothly through eco-friendly modes of fulfilment	Nature

Part C — Long-Answer Questions

1. Explain the statement: "Our participation at different levels is our value." Cover behaviour, work and participation in the larger order. (5 marks)

The statement means that our values are not abstract ideals but are expressed through our actual participation at different levels of living. In behaviour with human beings, our value is reflected in trust, respect, affection, care, guidance, reverence, gratitude, glory and love, leading to mutual happiness. In work with rest of nature, our value is shown through right utilisation, preservation and protection of material things, leading to prosperity for human beings and mutual prosperity of nature. In participation in the larger order, our value is expressed through perseverance, bravery, generosity, kindness, beneficence and compassion in societal systems, leading to fulfilment of the human goal.

2. Why are human values definite? Explain using the consolidated list of human values discussed in Lecture 23. (5 marks)

Human values are definite because they are rooted in the natural acceptance of every human being, which is universal and unchanging. The consolidated list includes trust, respect, affection, care, guidance, reverence, gratitude, glory, love, right utilisation, preservation, perseverance, bravery, generosity, kindness, beneficence and compassion. These values are not arbitrary or culturally relative; they are naturally acceptable to all humans as they lead to harmony, mutual happiness and mutual prosperity at all levels — individual, family, society and nature.

3. How does value-based living lead to mutual happiness and mutual prosperity? Explain with reference to at least two levels of living. (5 marks)

At the level of human-human relationship, value-based living means practising trust, respect, affection, care, guidance, reverence, gratitude, glory and love. This leads to mutual happiness because each person feels fulfilled and respected, and relationships become harmonious and just. At the level of human-rest of nature relationship, value-based living means right utilisation, preservation and protection of material things. This leads to mutual prosperity because human beings get their needs fulfilled without depleting or harming nature, ensuring that nature also thrives and continues to support life.

4. Choose one human value you need to practise more consciously this week. How will you verify it by natural acceptance and express it in behaviour or work? (5 marks)

I choose trust. I will verify it by natural acceptance by checking whether I feel naturally accepting and at ease when I think of trusting others without suspicion. I will express it in behaviour by giving a colleague the benefit of the doubt in a difficult situation and by not micromanaging a team member's task, instead showing confidence in their abilities.

Self-Reflection (Take-Home)

Which relationship value — trust, respect, affection, care, guidance, reverence, gratitude, glory or love — do I need to strengthen first?

Do I judge my success only by physical facility, or also by mutual happiness and mutual prosperity?

Where do I need to improve right utilisation, enrichment and protection of material things?

Can I see value-based living as a natural outcome of right understanding? What is one step I can take this week?

I need to strengthen respect first.

I judge my success by both physical facility and mutual happiness and mutual prosperity, but I need to give more weight to the latter.

I need to improve right utilisation, enrichment and protection of material things by repairing broken items instead of replacing them immediately and by sharing unused resources with others.

Yes, I can see value-based living as a natural outcome of right understanding. One step I can take this week is to consciously listen without interrupting when someone disagrees with me, to practise respect.
