Part B - In-Class Activity

Activity 1: Match the level of harmony with its expression or achievement.

Harmony at Different Levels	Expression / Achievement
Harmony at the level of Self	happiness
Harmony of Self with Body	self-regulation and health
Harmony in family / human-human relationship	mutual happiness, trust, fearlessness and justice
Harmony with rest of nature	mutual prosperity - prosperity in human being and preservation of rest of nature
Harmony with whole nature / existence	co-existence or mutual fulfilment with entire nature

Activity 2: Complete the framework from the lecture.

The framework from the lecture defines ethical human conduct through three aspects: values, policy, and character. Human values answer what to do and what not to do as a human being, and are definite because the human role in existence is definite. Policy is the detail/thought of how to express human values, including plan, program, implementation, result and evaluation. Character is the expression of human values in behaviour, work and participation in the larger order.

Table 1

Aspect	Meaning	Example / Focus
Values	Understanding "what to do" and "what not to do" as a human being	Honesty, non-violence, helping others
Policy	Detail / thought of "how to do"	Right utilization, protection, enrichment
Character	Expression of human values in behaviour, work and participation	Rightfully acquired wealth, compassionate behaviour, diligence in work

Activity 3 - Is it Ethical Conduct?

Table 2: For each statement, write whether it is closer to ethical conduct or not, and mention the reason.

Situation	Ethical / Not Ethical	Reason based on UHV
A person uses professional skill for mutual fulfilment and enrichment of nature.	Ethical	It aligns with the value of mutual fulfilment and harmony with nature, which is the basis of ethical human conduct.
A person increases personal gain by exploiting customers or nature.	Not Ethical	It violates the principle of mutual fulfilment and harms others, showing lack of right understanding.
A person makes a plan that gives priority to right utilization, protection and enrichment.	Ethical	It reflects the policy of right utilization and protection, which is part of ethical conduct.

Situation	Ethical / Not Ethical	Reason based on UHV
A person follows rules only due to fear of punishment, not due to right understanding.	Not Ethical	Ethical conduct must stem from right understanding and self-regulation, not external fear.

Part C - Long-Answer Questions

1. Explain the definitiveness of ethical human conduct by describing the expressions of harmony at different levels. (5 marks)

Ethical human conduct is definitive because it is based on the universal principle of harmony at all levels of existence. At the individual level, it is expressed as harmony in the self (right understanding and feeling). At the family level, it is expressed as mutual respect and trust. At the society level, it is expressed as justice, cooperation, and fearlessness. At the nature level, it is expressed as coexistence and enrichment of the environment. This harmony is definitive because it is inherent in human nature and leads to universal human values.

2. Explain values, policy and character as three aspects of ethical human conduct. (5 marks)

Values refer to the understanding of 'what to do' and 'what not to do' as a human being, such as truth, non-violence, and compassion. Policy is the detailed thought of 'how to do' — it includes right utilization, protection, and enrichment of resources. Character is the expression of human values in actual behaviour, work, and participation, such as rightfully acquired wealth, compassionate behaviour, and diligence. Together, these three aspects form the complete framework of ethical human conduct.

3. Why is ethical conduct described as self-satisfying, people-friendly and eco-friendly for all time, place and individual? (5 marks)

Ethical conduct is self-satisfying because it arises from right understanding and leads to inner peace and fulfilment. It is people-friendly because it promotes mutual trust, respect, and cooperation in relationships. It is eco-friendly because it ensures right utilization, protection, and enrichment of nature. These qualities are universal and timeless — they hold true for all individuals, in all places, and at all times, because they are based on the inherent harmony of human existence.

4. Recall one recent decision or action. Identify the value involved, the policy or thought of how to act, and the character expressed in your action. (5 marks)

Recent action: I chose to share my study notes with a classmate who was struggling. Value involved: compassion and mutual fulfilment. Policy: I planned to explain the concepts clearly and share resources without expecting anything in return. Character expressed: generosity, helpfulness, and a sense of responsibility towards others.

Self-Reflection (Take-Home)

In a recent action, did I act from right understanding or from fear/reward/pressure?

Where do I need more clarity: values, policy or character?

Does my behaviour lead to mutual happiness? Does my work lead to mutual prosperity and preservation of nature?

In a recent action, I acted partly from right understanding and partly from pressure to meet a deadline. I need more clarity in policy — specifically how to balance efficiency with ethical considerations. My behaviour generally leads to mutual happiness in personal relationships, but my work could better contribute to mutual prosperity and preservation of nature by choosing more sustainable practices.
